BUSINESS STRATEGY

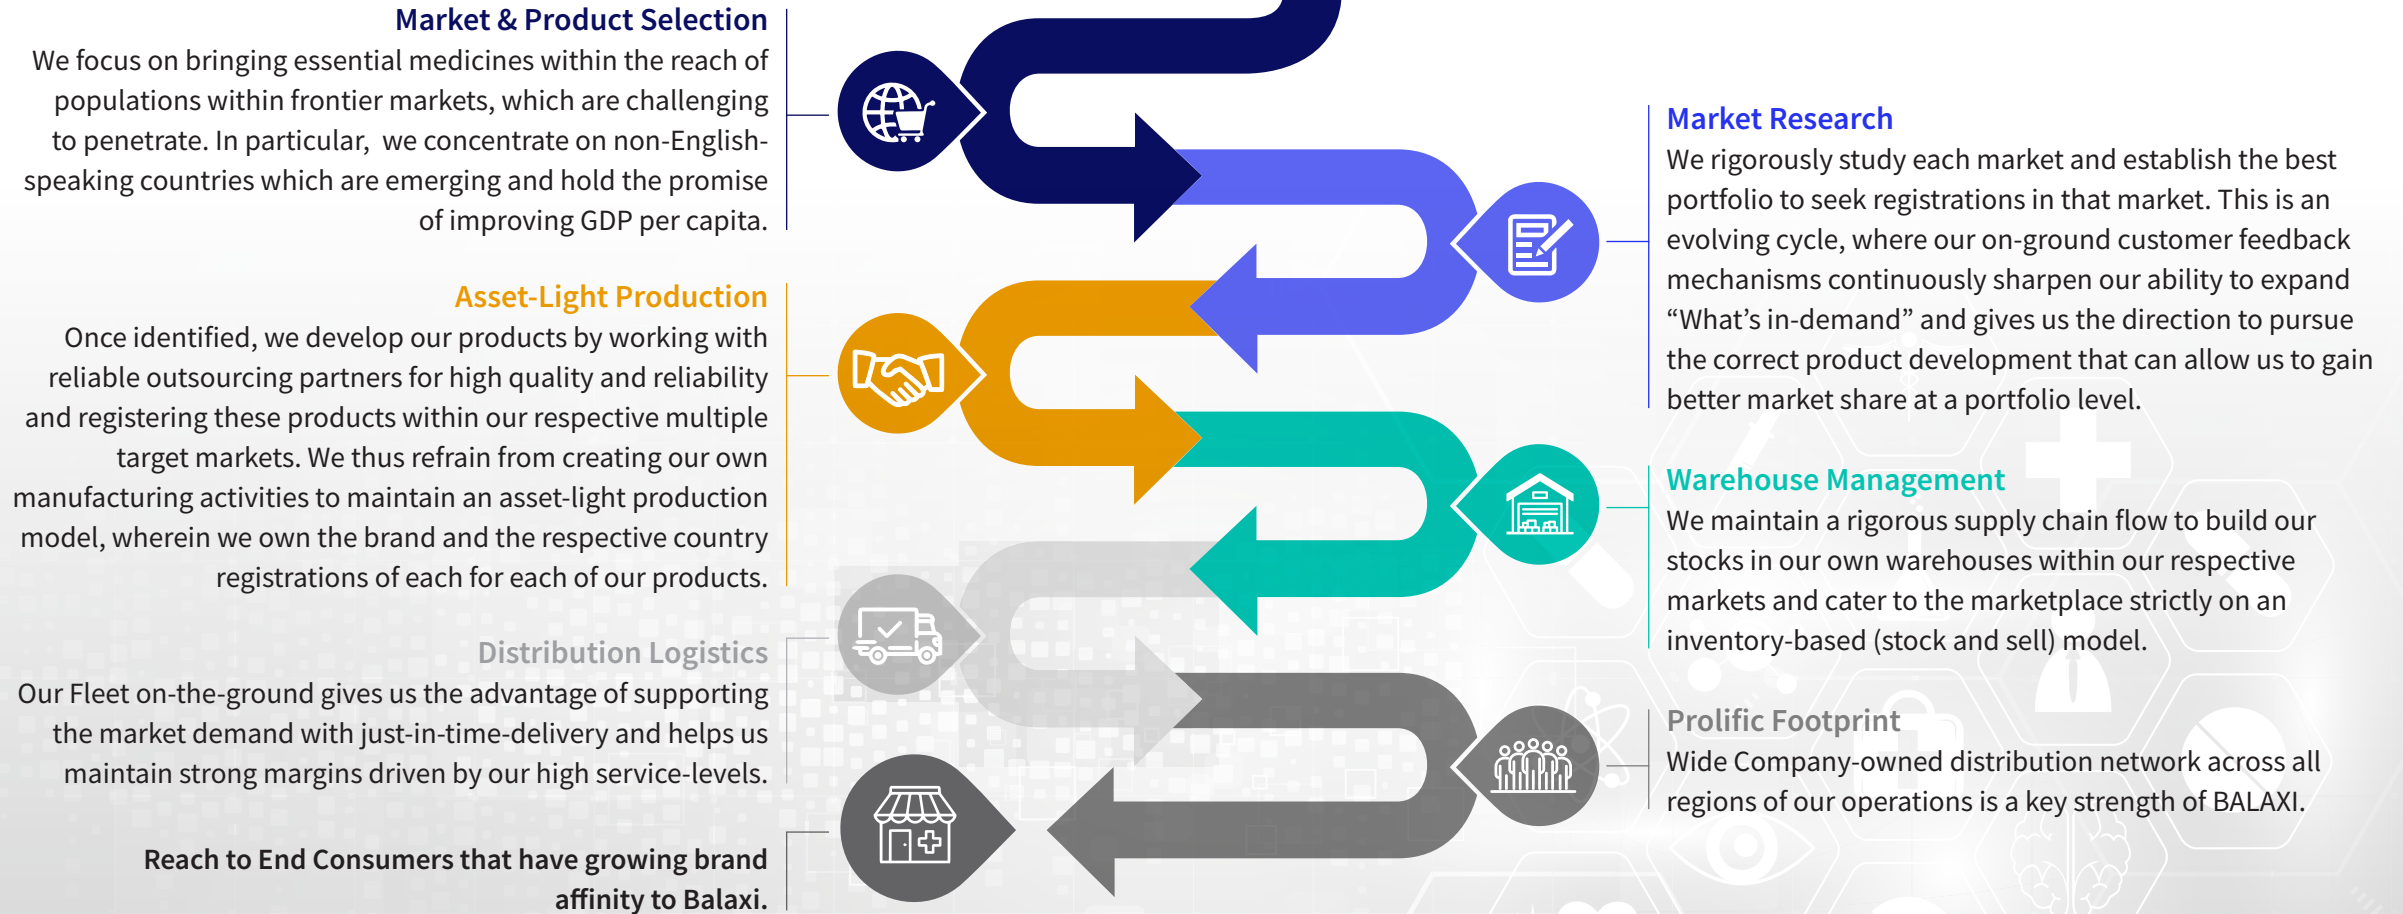

How We Operate:

Our Approach For Creating Value

How We Operate: Straddling The Value Chain

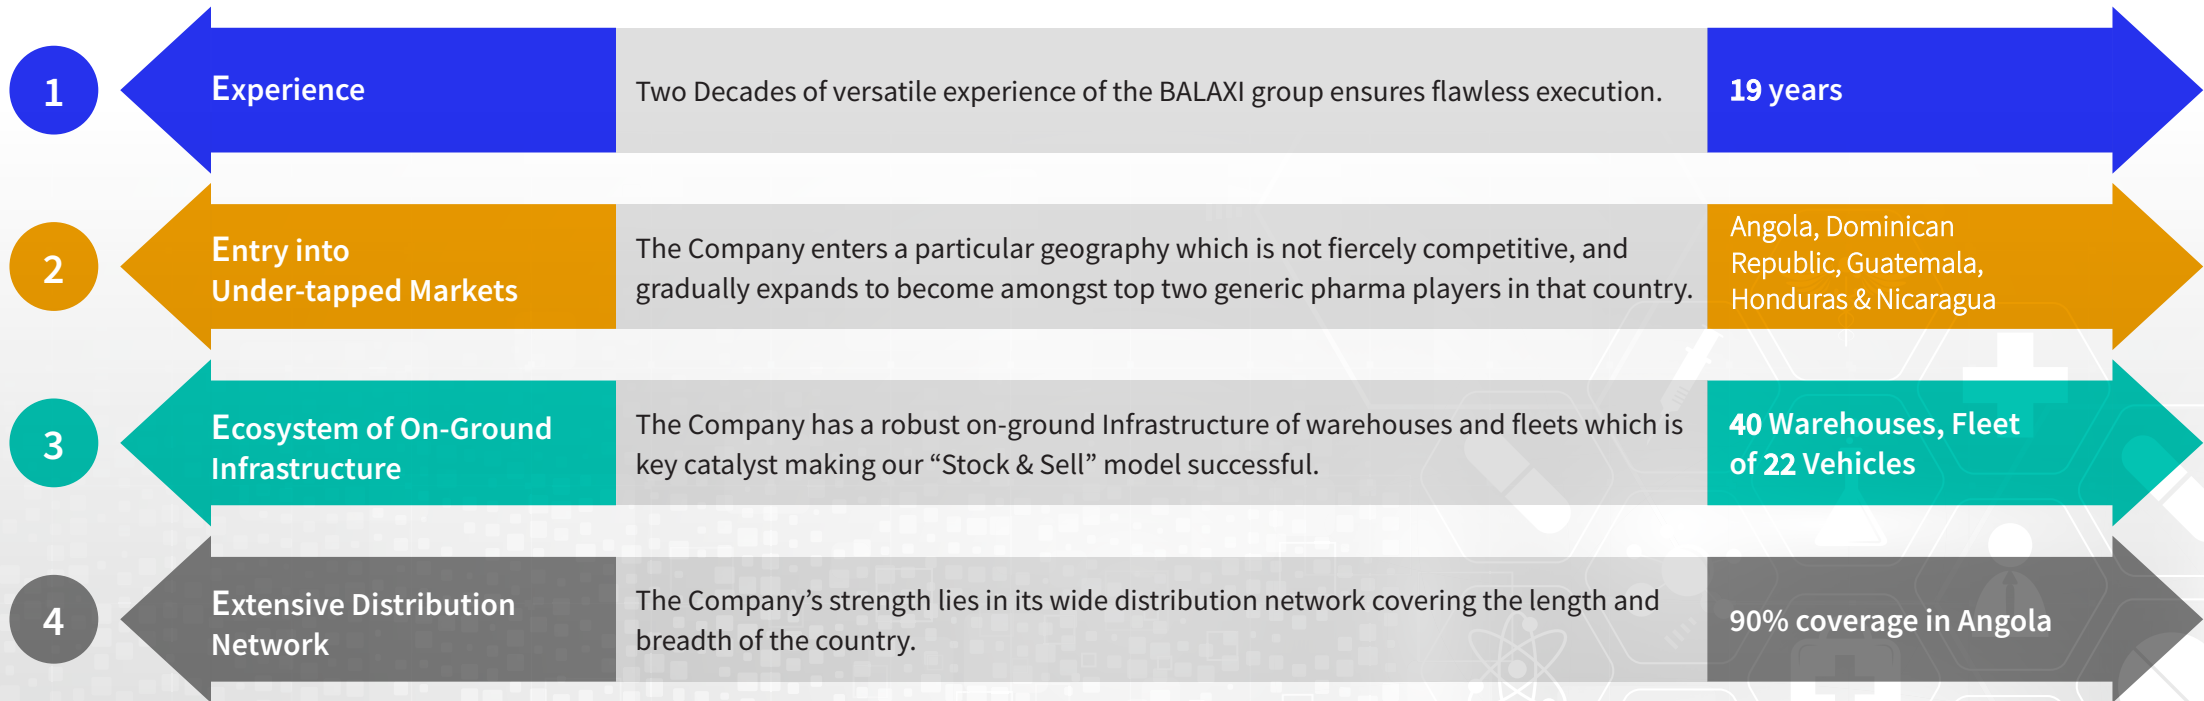

Balaxi's Key Differentiators:

Our Strengths “Built Over Time”

Four ‘E’s differentiates BALAXI

Investing In Balaxi:

The making of a Pharmaceuticals Major in multiple Frontier Markets

- » The Company participates in all stages of the pharma value chain, except in the R&D and manufacturing stages. Instead, it prefers to register proven and established generic drugs under its own brand, by more efficiently procuring its products from cost effective WHO GMP certified contract manufacturers in India, China and Portugal.
- » This approach liberates the Company from having to make large manufacturing capex, while significantly enabling it to shrink the time it takes to introduce a product into specific markets. This helps in reducing the payback period from its product development and registration processes significantly, allowing the company to generate strong returns on its investments.
- » The Company invests capex on securing product registrations, which can take as little time as 12-15 months, within which period it also manages to invest in and quickly establish its on-ground infrastructure including trained managers, warehouses and an efficient delivery fleet. This asset-light model allows the Company to focus its management energy more on brand building and market penetration.

The making of a Pharmaceuticals Major in multiple Frontier Markets (contd.)

- » The Company presently operates in three main regions Angola, Dominican Republic and Guatemala. The Company's key growth driver is to continuously explore and add similar new geographies, while consistently expanding within the existing markets organically.
- » The Company is currently in the process of expanding its operations in Mozambique, Nicaragua, Honduras, El Salvador and Central African Republic. It has also set its eyes on entering additional markets in Africa (similar characteristics to Angola) and Latin America in the medium term.

Organic growth complemented by adding new geographies

4

Sound financials giving headroom to fund its growth

- » The focus on the Company's 'cash & carry' model ensures regular free cash flows in the Company with minimal receivables collection risk. Furthermore, Balaxi has a philosophy of remaining a debt-free company.
- » A strong financial discipline coupled with the ability to generate regular free cash flows, allows Balaxi to adequately fund its growth organically.

Balaxi Pharmaceuticals: An Asset-Light Business Model Focussed on IPR's

Pharmaceuticals Industry Value Chain

How are we Asset-Light ?

- » The asset-light business model truncates time-to-market and liberates the Company from having to make large capex for establishing manufacturing facilities.
- » The Company's resources are more prudently channelized towards product registrations, which typically take as little time as 12-15 months, while it can parallelly set-up on-ground infrastructure in a new market.
- » Balaxi leverages its established core competency and expertise within this business model, by pursuing a stock & sell strategy through a well-built distribution network.
- » The Company's asset light model reduces capex intensity which allows quick scalability of the business.

Pharmaceuticals Business Overview

31%
are Antibiotic

23%
are Analgesic

- » The Company has a healthy ratio of branded and generic medicines in its portfolio of 28:72 (Branded: Generics) in Q2FY22
- » The Company is in the business of supplying everyday medicines addressing multiple therapeutic areas, with Antibiotics being the leading category at 31%, followed by Analgesic 23%.
- » The share of Branded Generics is at 49% in Angola; whereas it is at 16% in Guatemala and 11% in Dominican Republic.
- » Branded medicines are priced at premium relative to Generics. Consumers in Guatemala and Dominican Republic are brand conscious and hence, there is a significant headroom for growth of branded pharmaceuticals.
